You: You love to tell the stories of those around you and know there's a story behind the story. You're community-minded and community-driven. You enjoy talking to people, have a passion for writing and are looking to begin or further a career.

Us: We're the Platte Valley's newspaper. We're one of the state's pioneer publications, established two years before Wyoming was granted statehood. Like you, we're community-minded and community-driven. We take our role in the community of watchdog and the first-draft of history seriously. The Saratoga Sun has won multiple awards from the Wyoming Press Association over the years including several individual awards for articles and column writing, as well as Editorial Excellence.

What we expect: A general assignment reporter will be expected to cover a wide-variety of subjects ranging from high school prep sports to local government meetings, writing feature articles on Valley residents and reporting on the outdoor recreation and tourism of the area. The ideal candidate for this position is familiar with word processing programs such as Microsoft Word or Google Docs.

What we can provide: Previous experience is preferred, training can be provided. We also provide Paid Time Off and 401(k) after one year.

Where you will be working: Nestled between the Snowy Range and Sierra Madre mountains, amenities range from fly fishing and hiking in the summer to ice fishing and snowshoeing in the winter. Saratoga is also home to one of the first microbreweries in Wyoming and has a growing food scene. Finally, there's the natural hot springs, free to the public and open 24/7.

The Details: This is a salaried position with a flexible schedule and pay dependent on experience. If interested in the position, or for more information, please email Joshua Wood at wood.saratogasun@gmail.com.
